Participants Needed!

Investigating factors that predict emotional distress and academic performance in undergraduate students (two part study)

Initially, you will be asked to come to the psychology labs to complete a range of questionnaires concerning your mood state, tendency to ruminate & emotion regulation. You will also be asked to retrieve memories from your past in response to word cues and to come up with solutions to some common social problems (e.g. falling out with your friend).

Your responses on these tasks will be audio-recorded (these recordings will be destroyed as soon as your responses have been transcribed and scored).

You will also be asked to generate a random sequence of numbers. Finally, you will asked to complete a measure of concentration where you have to respond to some stimuli and not others whilst ignoring distractors.

Six weeks after the session you will be sent a link to a series of questionnaires online. You will also be asked to upload your provisional grades so far via the same link.

Participants will have the choice of either 18 SONA credits or a £10 Amazon voucher at the end of the second session.

Please contact Samantha Jordan (email address below) to take part or find out more.

S.jordan@aston.ac.uk
S.jordan@aston.ac.uk
S.jordan@aston.ac.uk
S.jordan@aston.ac.uk
S.jordan@aston.ac.uk
S.jordan@aston.ac.uk
S.jordan@aston.ac.uk
S.jordan@aston.ac.uk
S.jordan@aston.ac.uk
S.jordan@aston.ac.uk
S.jordan@aston.ac.uk
S.jordan@aston.ac.uk
S.jordan@aston.ac.uk
S.jordan@aston.ac.uk
S.jordan@aston.ac.uk